User experiences:

This photo was taken by dad as an amateur photographer. I wanted to surprise him on his 57th and got colors done. The Fireia &#x201c;advanced instructions&#x201c; helped me square out each fine detail. He was truly impressed by the detailing. Great feature.

My grandparents were very upset that our dog tore up their wedding photo (accidentally). I got Fireia restoration, enhanced image quality, added an artistic border, and gave them a quality print.&#xA0;

Stephanie and I met at the annual scouts&#x201c; day in Toronto. We always missed our picture together in the uniforms from this meet. I uploaded some of our pictures from school and got Fireia Makeover. She beamed I got her the best anniversary gift ever.

Our gang of friends won the tug of war in Oktoberfest in the late 70s. You know how all that goes, the photo was &#x201c;shaky&#x201c;. My daughter got me restoration large print, and it looked great.&#xA0;

It was summer 1944 and trousers for ladies were catching on. Our photo of my grandmother, on her first pair of trousers, got water damaged. I shopped around for someone who could restore and retain the charm.&#xA0;

Our new branch was doing well and the big man was stopping by for Halloween. It was fun and frolic and group photos happened. We got a few &#x201c;makeover&#x201c; done as the group in Pirates of the Caribbean theme. Everybody loved it.&#xA0;

We are starting a photo gallery in our town house. We raided all the cellars and got out the shoe boxes &#x2013; what was disappointing with the considerable silver fish damage turned to joy when we saw the first restored samples came out. Thorough job.

My friends&#x201c; wedding was organized in a rush &#x2013; and I was the best photographer around. Sadly, the photos did not have the best of lighting and there were grains. Well, I got DIRT Masters to retouch the images and the prints came out as good as professional.

I had a rather bold tattoo done in college and it showed up in some of our wedding photos. My husband was cool, but I wanted our wedding photo to be proper I got DIRT Masters to clean that up. Good thing, the makeover left the skin tone intact.
